Allocare AG – Changes in Leadership

As part of the succession plan that has been in the works for some time, David Popp was appointed CEO of Allocare AG effective July 1, 2026. David has been with our company for nine years and was most recently responsible for Sales and Client Services. With his professional expertise, dedication, and many years of experience, he will continue to drive the successful development of Allocare AG.

At the same time, the former CEO, Peter Staub, has assumed the chairmanship of the Board of Directors. In this role, he will guide the strategic development of Allocare AG and, in close coordination with David, continue to perform selected operational tasks. This ensures continuity in the leadership of our company.

This change also marks the end of René Charrière's long tenure as Chairman of the Board of Directors. Since the management buyout in 2017, he has played a decisive role in shaping the development of Allocare AG with great dedication, foresight, and valuable insights. The entire Allocare team would like to take this opportunity to thank him sincerely for his extraordinary commitment and support.

David and Peter are, of course, available to answer any questions at any time.
